O & M SEED OATS

Of known quality, can be sown one-half bushel per acre less than common seed oats, which results in a reduced cost. They produce strong, healthy, vigorous plants that stool heavily and result in a larger crop of big heavy grain, thin shuck and stiff straw that seldom lodge. They are a very consistent heavy yielder.

O & M VICTORY SEED OATS

We highly recommend these oats. A rather tall growing variety with very strong, stiff straw. The grain is white, long, very plump and heavy, very handsome in appearance, medium to rather late in maturity. One of the heaviest yielding oats ever to be introduced into this country.

O & M WHITE STAR SEED OATS

We imported the parent stock direct from Sweden, which has proven to be one of the best we have ever produced. It is a white, branching type oat, quite similar to Victory, but with a slightly shorter straw and a very strong root system. The kernels are large and plump, with a fairly thin hull, containing heavy meat. A mid-season variety, at least three or four days earlier than Victory.

O & M COLUMBIA GREY OATS

A high yielding early maturing oat developed at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. In tests over a six year period at the Ohio State University it has proved both earlier and higher yielding than Fulghum or Franklin. Kernels are grayish in color, long berry and thin hull. A high yielding variety for warm climates

O & M LENROC OATS

Introduced by Cornell University Agriculture Experiment Station. It is of the tree or branching type and has a good stiff straw. The kernels are white, plump with a medium hull. Lenroc is about mid-season in maturity. It will ripen about a week earlier than Victory or other similar types. It has a very high yield record.

ess in Oat Production is Good Seed

Note the above picture of O & M Northern Grown Seed Oats. They produce a strong healthy vigorous plant, stiff straw that seldom lodges, and stool heavy which is essential in producing high yields. They can be sown ½ bushel per acre less than common oats.
